HIP DISEASE-LAMENESS CURED! HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE. Read the following extract of a letter, dated WASHINGTON, March 19, 1854.

Messes. Mortimer & Mowbray-Dear Sirs .- My little girl contracted lameness, and began to lean one side, during the early part of last Summer, but I thought it was from a habit she had acquired of standing on the left foot. Several ersons told me that it was hip disease, which I was unwilling to believe, until she became so crooked that I was quite alarmed. In September I took her to one of the best physicians in our city, who said that her spine was affected, and prescribed accordingly. The medicine being of no service to her, he then pronounced it hip disease, and said she would probably be lame for life. I then made use of a much advertised and celebrated Liniment, which was said to be beneficial in such cases, and continued it until the 10th of February, when I changed it for Hartshorn Liniment, which I
